Making Memories & Crafting Keepsakes

Soon we'll find our thoughts and energy focused on the holidays and how to make them special, if not spectacular. Commercials, retail displays, and social media will bombard us with suggestions on how to make it all "perfect."

Before all this craziness starts, we would like to pass-along some ideas on how to keep the "happy" in Happy Holidays. Instead of promoting perfection, the theme of this newsletter is on gathering with friends and family to make memories and slowing down to craft keepsakes to treasure for years to come.

Make it with friends!
Felted Forest from Apostrophe S

Aloe & Friends—Radiants

Craft your own desert-toned garden with this kit packed with stunning WoolFelt® succulents. Aloe & Friends from Apostrophe S has an easy-to-make array of wool-blend felt forms that you arrange in a wood planter box.

Do-It-Together with Apostrophe S

Pinterest Made Possible. DIY failure is frustrating and costly when trying to turn an idea photo from Pinterest into a finished project. Apostrophe S has a fun solution. Instead of DIY, their projects are for DIT (do-it-together) and their all-inclusive kits come with everything you'll need: tools, instructional videos, and pre-cut pieces.

An Apostrophe S Coordinator (who earns extra income/rewards) organizes the casual get-togethers. Kits are ordered in advance so the event is spent on creating, making memories, and having fun!

Jordan Tregagle, Director at Apostrophe S, explains why WoolFelt is "the heart and soul" of many of the kits. "I'm a big fan of the felts National Nonwovens sell — I love that they are made here in the U.S. and in a part of the country so rich with history and tradition."
